

'Saltaire - by the hands of 100 children'

The colourful paintings of Saltaire Village and Roberts Park were made by children who attended our event in the park at Saltaire Festival 2014. The children used coloured pencils, felt tip pens and oil pastels. Who would have thought that on a sunny day in Saltaire we might be surrounded by creatures such as T-rex or Godzillas?

Since Young Masters started, our teachers have been providing free activities for children at festivals, art trails and exhibitions to encourage young children in painting, drawing and modeling.

Young Masters is an award-winning visual arts course aimed at primary school age children. It runs weekly over two terms of 15 weeks starting in March and September each year. We run classes from Bradford City Centre, Guiseley, Thackley and Saltaire. From September we will be opening in Bingley. At the end of each term, artwork is exhibited to the public in a central location in Bradford.

In our classes, children with a diverse range of learning abilities work alongside, and equally, with others that love art. Our professional tutors and artists teach a wide range of media and techniques.

Young Masters is where children discover and develop their natural talent and skills. We are DBS registered and CRB checked. As well as exhibitions, we run competitions, provide Arts Award certification, and we are a part of the Children's University. We are a community focused not-for-profit organisation.

If your children have a knack for creativity, or could benefit from encouragement, then come and join us. There is so much to discover.
